

Flood Protection, Jefferson County, Outer Bluegrass

Growth of the metropolitan Louisville area has been accompanied by alteration of the existing landscape. In this example, retaining walls have been built along a drainage area for flood control adjacent to extensive development. In metropolitan areas, care must be taken to maintain water quality and control stormwater runoff from surrounding parking lots. Photo by Bart Davidson, Kentucky Geological Survey.