

Limestone Terrain—Inner Bluegrass Region

The Lexington Limestone provides fertile soils for agriculture and desirable sites for residential development in Woodford County. Residential development in karst areas like the Inner Bluegrass must provide for adequate wastewater treatment systems to prevent pollution to groundwater and other water sources. Careful planning can preserve and enhance the value of the land and minimize conflicting interests. Photo by Dan Carey, Kentucky Geological Survey.