The 2000 census estimated that nearly 120,000 households in the region relied on private wells for their water supply. Of that total, 18,000 are documented in Kentucky’s Groundwater Repository.