The population in the entire region peaked in 1980, fell in the 1980’s, and increased slowly in the 1990’s. Counties whose economies rely on coal and heavy industry saw population decreases. The population of Kentucky increased 15.2 percent from 3,660,340 in 1980 to 4,217,544 in 2006.