INFORMATION CIRCULAR—NO. 5

INDEX LIST OF EARLY WESTERN KENTUCKY WELL RECORDS

FOREWORD

This list of information relative to filmed records of wells drilled for oil and gas over a period of some thirty years, and mainly located in Western Kentucky, has been a project of all staff members of the Kentucky Geological Survey and a number of student assistants. Various geologists and interested parties have cooperated in the assigning of Carter coordinate locations.

It must be understood that many locations are not accurate. No effort was made to assign them other than to a one minute quadrangle. The base in most cases was the old 1/62,500 topographic base, and no effort was made to adapt locations to the new base. Property maps compiled by the Keller Map Company were used in the determination of many locations. Because of the shifting of longitudinal lines by recent surveys, many locations are likely in error to the extent of one or more minutes.

We believe the effort has been worthwhile, certainly to us, and we hope to petroleum geologists, engineers, and other individuals in the industry. It is at least a start in the right direction.

We invite interested parties to supply corrections wherever possible so that we may some time compile a better list. Your cooperation will be appreciated.

A supplemental list of records, lacking total depth and/or serial numbers is attached. In many cases records are not available on film or otherwise in the Survey office, of wells on this latter list, but they are included here for whatever useful data they may contain.

We realize that as soon as these lists are published there will be a call for records. At present, we may not be able to service these requests. However, the films and many typed records are available for inspection and use at the Survey office in Lexington. Our staff will provide such assistance as we can without interfering with our regular duties.
